She began her career with Hangar as an office administrator and became a part of the work family.

She gave birth to her daughter, Chelsie, in the summer of 1992 and a son, Justin, in the winter of 1995.

Cara married Herman in October of 1991 and spent a strong 31 years together.

In her free time she loved spending time with her grandbabies. They enjoyed gardening and coloring together many afternoons after school. She was always there and nothing but a phone call away.

Cara was loved by many and loved just as many in return.

She enjoyed playing on her tablet as well.

She always had a love for animals and brought many strays home with help from her daughter. Her dog, Peanut, was her favorite and probably the most spoiled of all the critters they loved over the years.

A very fond memory of the family is Cara and Chelsie herding a pig home for almost two miles because they couldn't catch him but didn't want to leave him. His name was Porkchop and lived a happy pig life after he made it to his new home.
