

Craig Massey Hughes

May 29, 1952 - December 14, 2020

The family of Craig Massey Hughes hopes all who knew Craig will take a few minutes to remember him.

Craig passed away on December 14, 2020. He is survived by his mother, Ann Tye Roe; his sisters Cindy Miller, Melony Gravener and Marsha Wiseman, all of Muskogee; nephew Andy Miller and wife Shawn of Cookson; and great nephews Matthew Miller of Stillwater and Jack Miller of Fayetteville. He was preceded in death by his father, Jack 'Red' Hughes and nephew, Austin Wiseman.

Craig graduated with the Muskogee Class of 1970 and graduated from OSU where he was a member of Phi Delta Theta. He served in the US Army as an intelligence analyst, cryptographer and as a Cambodian linguist, serving in Thailand. He also worked as a civilian for the Department of the Army where he was a German linguist, the US Customs Service and the Department of State in Washington, D.C. and traveled extensively in this work.

Craig loved all college sports and we will miss spirited discussions with him over whether an athlete 'threw' a game, the legitimacy of a referees' particular call or the hometown of NCAA teams like Gonzaga or St. John's.

No services are planned at this time.

“ Craig was a gentle soul. We faced our teenage challenges together. He was my best friend. My first kiss shines bright in my memories. He lives in my heart.

“ Jim and I are so very sorry to hear this. He was a friend. What a wonderful story teller and jokester he was. He laughed at his own jokes. And what a great laugh he had. So hard to lose a friend. Love and sympathy to his mother and his sisters and their families. RIP dear Craig.

“ Craig’s death touches me with a tender aching sadness, but it also makes me fondly remember all the happy and varied ways our lives touched through the years as we grew up in Muskogee. Craig dated one of my childhood friends in high school. My oldest brother, Malcolm, and my husband, Richard, played church basketball with “Mad Dog”. His twin sisters were special friends of my younger brother, Roger, as they grew up together in school. Craig’s sweet mother was a dear friend to my beloved mother-in-law, Bette. I will remember his handsome good looks, his warm smile, and his speed on the basketball court. May “Mad Dog” know everlasting peace as good memories of him bring family and friends comfort.
