“ The picture of Beth and Otto, standing in the yard, in this time of their lives, is how I tend to remember them. We were the Medlin's neighbors and friends, the Jacksons. Our parents, Lee and Wanda, or Jean, as some called mom, went to school together. Mom loved telling the story of going to church with Beth and dad when they were very young. My dad rode a horse to the church and when services were over, he let my mom ride the horse so he could walk and talk to Beth. Mom said she thought they were crazy because she got the horse. Beth and Otto found love, as did my parents. I remember that it was in Beth's kitchen that I saw my first frog legs being cooked by Shelby. Many times, mom spent around Beth's kitchen table, talking. Otto seemed to be always busy, doing something. Usually, he would be coming up from the bottoms when I would see him. He had been grafting pecan trees, the last time I remember. I admired both of them. Looking at the pictures of their lives, you can see, it was well lived and well loved.

We recently lost our brother, John, to lung cancer. My sister, Mabelle Persall, and I are so sorry for your loss. Thoughts and prayers to the family.
