“ My daughter, Beth, had a bond with him that she will carry in her heart forever. They always tried to one up each other at Christmas, who could get the other the best present, and after her grandfather died last year a day before her birthday, he began the one uping each other on their birthdays, for that I will always be grateful. Omar helped her deal with losing her grandfather and now we have lost him. I wish I had met his grandchildren, so that maybe she could help them.

I cannot express the love my family has for Omar, he was a great friend to all of us. We watched the stars together and him and my husband would compare Guns and go out shooting, and then to the malt shop in Braggs to eat, he loved Donna's Malt Shop. The phone calls about a good show (usually about outer space or unknown animals) on cable, and listening to his trips to the casino. I gave him a blue bandana for his hair (after he grew it out) that he liked, to keep his hair back when he had his convertibles top down.

My condolences to his family, he spoke of y'all often, and I wish I would have known earlier of his passing. His present will always remain on our mantle unopened. Y'all are in my prayers, Jayne Spears and Family (Troy, Justin, Sarah, Cayden, Addie and Beth)
