“ Dad - because of you I have beautiful memories of growing up in nature - chasing frogs, butterflies, and fireflies - of running through fields and turning broken down barn houses into a palace and a stage - of nursing a sick calf I named Sunshine, and being chased by an obstinate bull who left a mark I still bear. I learned to appreciate what it takes for a simple man to put food on the table and I learned the value of hard work and a job done right - the first time. My experience for those years of growing up under your roof helped to instill in me that a good attitude always wins. Rest in peace, Dad. The hard work is done now.
