“ I can still hear you, Momma. I know you will be with me forever, in Spirit. You were a good mother. When I have described you to my many friends you never chanced to meet, I always said, "She supported me and was there for me, even when/if she didn't agree with me or understand." I will miss so much our phone calls, her counseling, and the way she would so often surprise me with her openness and tolerance. She was brave. She suffered so much during her illness, yet she rarely complained and always remained positive and smiling. We shared many wonderful moments, especially in the last week of her life. As sick as she was, we still managed to laugh together. I will cherish the memory of your life for the rest of mine.
