“ PEARL JAM LYRICS

"Sirens" Hear the sirens Hear the sirens. Hear the sirens Hear the circus so profound I hear the sirens More and more in this here town Let me catch my breath to breathe And reach across the bed Just to know we're safe I am a grateful man The slightest bit of light And I can see you clear Oh, have to take your hand And feel your breath for fear this someday will be over I pull you close, so much to lose knowing that nothing lasts forever I didn't care before you were here. I danced with laughter with the ever after But all things change Let this remain Hear the sirens Covering distance in the night The sound echoing closer Will they come for me next time? For every choice mistake I've made it's not my plan To send you in the arms of another man And if you choose to stay I'll wait, I'll understand Oh, it's a fragile thing This life we lead If I think too much I can get overwhelmed by the grace. By which we live our lives with death over our shoulders. Want you to know that should I go I always loved you, held you high above, true. I study your face, and the fear goes away. It's a fragile thing, this life we lead. If I think too much I can get overwhelmed by the grace By which we live our lives with death over our shoulder Want you to know that should I go, I always loved you, held you high above, true. I study your face, And the fear goes away, The fear goes away, The fear goes away. Ah, ah, oh, oh Ah, ah, oh, oh

“ Phyllis recently told me she was very proud of her son for how great he turned out and how great a father Craig had been. I hope they both will remember that. I am sure she probably told them both many times but I just want to make it known. She really appreciated both of them. Vince Wike

“ Carrie, Melanie, and all of the family, there are no words that adequately express my feelings of sorrow for all of you. I only remember Phyllis as your little sister, when we were kids. She obviously grew into a beautiful woman, with many, many people who loved her so very much. I will continue to pray for your family - for comfort, healing and love.
