“ Raymond and his brother Cleon were "double cousins" to Jack, Doyle, Maggie and Judy Mosteller. The doubles took pride in explaining that our dads (Charlie and Allie Mosteller) were brothers and our moms (Ruth and Pearl Keaton) were sisters. How close can you get? We had the same relatives any way you look at it! All the children of the doubles call him Uncle Raymond - well, since double cousins Raymond (son of Charlie and Ruth) and Jack Mosteller (son of Allie and Pearl) married sisters Margaret and Louise Fultz and Maggie Mosteller (daughter of Allie and Pearl) married their brother, Ross Fultz - you can see why we have fun explaining the family tree.

Back in then 90's the cousins (now numbering well over 100) decided to have a once a year "Mostoberfest". Raymond set the tone for the gatherings - the one thing he was most most adamant about was there would be "no schedules and no rules", otherwise he was not interested. He especially loved the skits, written by Jennifer Mosteller and acted out by the cousins. He was our "Grand Poobah" of hiking. If you could get up early and didn't mind getting lost in the Sans Bois Mountains at Robbers Cave State Park with all of the gorgeous scenic views, he was your guide. He managed to do this well into his 80's and left a legacy of memories to three generations of "cousins". He was one of a kind - we'll miss you Uncle Raymond!
